Who we are

Blockchain, crypto-assets, trading robots, remote working and in camera general meetings due to the health crisis: behind these words lies real-world disruption that impacts our economy. In this ever-changing world, a vigilant regulator is needed on the ground.

Our activities contribute to making the economy more robust and responsible. Whatever our respective duties, we are proud of our role ensuring that the rules are respected, helping French people to distinguish between risks and opportunities, and contributing to the revival of the economy through innovation.

We are proud to be taking action for the real world.
