

Appointments with effect from 1 December 2020

Philippe Guillot, Managing Director in charge of the Data and Markets Directorate

Philippe Guillot holds a degree in private law from Paris XI University, and began his career in finance in 1987 with DKL James Capel (now HSBC) where he occupied various positions on the markets. In 1991, he joined Enskilda Securities as a market maker, in Paris and then in London. In 1998, he moved to Crédit Agricole Cheuvreux in Paris, taking over as Head of Facilitation, before being made Group Trading Director in 2006, in Paris and then London. Over the years, Philippe has been an active participant in numerous working groups and market bodies dealing with MiFID issues in Paris. He has been a member of the Securities Trading Committee of the AFME (Association For Financial Markets in Europe) and represented Cheuvreux in Regulated Markets and MTFs (Multilateral Trade Facilities). He joined the AMF in March 2012 as Managing Director, Markets Directorate and has since played a leading role in the market microstructure debate. He is an active contributor to various international bodies.

Alexandra Givry, Executive Director of the Data and Surveillance Directorate

A graduate of Ecole Polytechnique, Ecole Nationale de la Statistique et de l'Administration Economique, and a qualified actuary, Ms. Givry began her career in 2002 at the Commission des Opérations de Bourse (COB), before joining the Autorité de Contrôle des Assurances et des Mutuelles (ACAM), now Autorité de Contrôle Prudenciel et de Résolution (ACPR). At the ACPR, she held the position of insurance auditor in charge of the supervision of insurance companies and groups, before taking responsibility for life insurance regulatory issues. She took part in the drafting of the Solvency 2 Directive. In 2009, she joined the AMF as deputy head of Market Surveillance and later become the head of the Market Surveillance Directorate. She is also the Sponsor of the IT transformation programme ICY, launched by the AMF in 2016 to redesign its market surveillance platform by harnessing the power of Big Data and Artificial Intelligence.

Julien Leprun, Deputy Executive Director of the Data and Surveillance Directorate

A graduate engineer from Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Mines de Saint-Etienne, Julien Leprun obtained the title of chartered financial analyst (CFA) in 2013. He began his career as a financial auditor with Arthur Andersen (now E&Y). After a stint with Société Générale NY under the International Volunteers in Business programme where he worked on equity derivatives, in 2002, he joined Axa Investment Managers where he worked as a structured credit quantitative analyst. In 2005, he joined Fortis Investment Managers (now BNP Paribas Asset Management) as a structurer, still in the credit segment. He joined the AMF's Market Surveillance Division in 2009 and became head of its quantitative unit in 2011. The engineering team he supervises is responsible for designing alerts for the Surveillance Division, analysing complex cases of market abuse and conducting market intelligence studies. Mr. Leprun has also taken part in various task forces at the ESMA including the one dealing with transparency issues.

Peggy Fouchard, Programme Manager in the Data and Surveillance Directorate

A holder of a postgraduate degree in Applied Mathematics from the University of Rennes, Peggy Fouchard began her career as an analyst with the Lincoln software company. In 1998, she joined the market surveillance unit of the COB's Inspection Department, where she took part in the overhaul of its information system as project manager. In 2008, she became head of the project management team in charge of the tools used by the Investigations and Market Surveillance Division, and later by the Markets Directorate. In 2016, she joined the multidisciplinary unit dedicated to the ICY programme where she successively held the positions of project director, local chief data officer and head of change management and user satisfaction.

Stéphane Pontoizeau, Executive Director of the Market Intermediaries and Market Infrastructures Supervision Directorate

A graduate from the ESTP engineering school and a holder of a postgraduate degree in Banking and Finance from the University of Paris-Dauphine, Stéphane Pontoizeau began his career as a consultant with Eurogroup where he carried out project management assignments in banking accounting and financial information systems between 2001 and 2005, mainly for Deutsche Bank and BNP Paribas. In 2005, Stéphane lent his expertise to the AMF for the project to merge the two market surveillance applications developed by the COB and the Financial Markets Council (CMF). He joined the AMF in 2006 as a project manager in the Service Provider Control and Market Infrastructure Division. He was appointed Senior Inspector in 2008, and joined the Markets Directorate as Head of the Market Intermediaries Monitoring Department when it was created in July 2011. This department is responsible for the supervision of investment service providers engaged in market activities (investment banks, brokers, post-trade participants). It also examines applications for licences from these entities, an activity that has taken on particular importance with Brexit, and more recently registration applications from digital asset service providers (DASP).

Delphine Vandenbulcke, Deputy Executive Director of the Market Intermediaries and Market Infrastructures Supervision Directorate

A graduate of ENSAE and HEC. She began her career in 1992 at Crédit Agricole CIB (formerly Banque Indosuez) as a credit risk analyst. She subsequently became a market risk analyst for the bank's debt-exchange activity, and later, head of cross-cutting projects and coordination for the aeronautical financing business. In 2004, Ms. Vandenbulcke joined the Autorité de Contrôle Prudentiel et de Résolution, where she took over the prudential supervision of a portfolio of financial institutions.

In 2007, she joined the AMF as a post-trade expert before being appointed Director of the Market Infrastructure Division. In this role, she coordinated the supervision of these institutions (trading venues, clearing houses and central depositories) and contributed to the drawing up and implementation of regulatory documents in this field (in particular, MiFID II, EMIR and CSDR). Since January 2020, Ms. Vandenbulcke has also been representing the AMF on the ESMA's Clearing House Supervisory Committee.

France Mayer, Head of the Market Intermediaries Supervision Directorate

A graduate of EDHEC business school, with a finance major and an MBA from Universidad Autónoma de Madrid (IADE) specialised in finance and accounting. She began her career with Société Générale, successively holding very operational and management positions in the secondary trading team on structured products and complex derivatives. She then moved on to join the fund structuring team at Lyxor Asset Management. She came to work with AMF at the end of 2010 as a portfolio manager at the Market Intermediary Monitoring Division and in 2014 she was appointed head of the unit that was to become the "Individual and thematic supervision unit" responsible, among other things, for the approval and day-to-day monitoring of market intermediaries as well as the implementation of new regulations such as MiFID II.

Marc Laglace, Executive Director of the Authorisations and Supervision Directorate

A holder of a Master's degree in accounting and finance (IAE Gustave Eiffel) from University of Paris XII. He began his career in 1995 as assistant, and then senior auditor and manager with the audit firm Constantin Associés, which is now part of Deloitte. He carried out legal and contractual engagements, consulting, change management and training assignments. He specialises in the banking sector and asset management. He joined the AMF in 2001 as Deputy Director in the unit in charge of examining UCI authorisation applications, and became Executive Director in 2005. His scope of activity was extended to teams in charge of employee savings and capital investment, real estate and then management companies and ISPs, to ensure uniform governance of asset management players. Today, this team is made up of 47 members. He organises the authorisation activities of market participants and acts on cross-disciplinary issues related to the Directorate's activity.

Marianick Darnis Lorca, Deputy Executive Director of the Investigation Directorate

A graduate of HEC Paris and Paris I Sorbonne University (Masters in commercial and tax law), Marianick began her career at the end of 2003 in the Corporate M&A department of the law firm Paul Hastings. She worked on mergers and acquisitions operations, capital increases and capital restructuring (in particular takeovers of equity warrants). At the beginning of 2007, she joined the Corporate M&A team at the law firm Linklaters. There, she worked with industrials and investment funds on external growth operations. She advised listed companies on their stock market law and governance issues. She also assisted distressed companies during their refinancing or capital restructuring. In 2015, she joined the AMF's Investigation Directorate, where she conducted several market or financial disclosure investigations. In 2020, she contributed to the creation of the Investigation Directorate's digital knowledge base.
